Hi everyone:

I've treated two miniature Schnauzers for Schnauzer Comedone Syndrome. I used the human frequency of 778 as well as 9 and 16. The results were amazing with resolution after 2 treatments. I was wondering if anyone has used the 778 frequency at all for this purpose?

Thanks

We had a very overweight King Cavalier Spaniel that was having laryngeal problems--did not want to walk, etc--basically just stayed out with very loud breathing. Did 13 series laser treatments with settings 4/33/60/151 ; 9/16/42/53 ; 111/59/1260/20.5 and 4/33/60/151 ; 4 151/16/33 ; 15.99/45.2/11/279 all with base station. after series dog is back to walking and doing things he used to do as a pup :) owners very happy

A dachshund came in that had been stomped by a horse--down in back, not able to stand or urinate on his own. radiographically had 2 fractures in vertebral column--distal front portion of L 4 and an oblique fracture of distal L5 with displacement :(

started 13 series treatment with 4/33/60/151 ; 45/9/4/53 ; 9/16/1260/465 and 4/33/60/151 ; 151/1151/153/454 ; 9/16/42/53 with base station. improvement noted after 6-7 treatments and after 11 treatments owner says is running and doesn't think he needs anymore :)

Doesn't it feel great to be able to "cure" some things without drugs
